IAC-D-105/2

11 July 1957

Revised Draft

concern, the collection of Army, Naval, and Air intelligence information respectively. Owing to the importance of scientific and technical intelligence to the military services, this collection responsibility shall include scientific and technical, as well as economic information pertinent to departmental missions.

4. The Central Intelligence Agency may collect intelligence information in support of assigned functions or as a by-product of the assigned functions: Provided, That this collection involves no undesirable duplication of any of the specific assignments in paragraphs 2 or 3 above.

5. The senior U.S. representative in each nation or foreign jurisdiction where the United States maintains official representation shall coordinate in his area the collection activities not covered by other National Security Council Directives. Full utilization shall be made of the assigned duties, individual initiative, or favorable contacts of departmental and agency representatives.

6. Intelligence information collected in accordance with the terms of this Directive by any agency in the field shall, wherever possible, be transmitted immediately to the field representative of the agency carrying out the collection activity mentioned in paragraphs 2, 3, or 4 above, who shall then be responsible for its onward transmission: Provided, That the original collector shall not be enjoined from transmitting the information to his own headquarters.

7. Departments and Agencies carrying out collection activities under paragraphs 2, 3, or 4 above shall recognize the needs of the other Departments and Agencies in establishing collection programs.
